M. M. MURDOCK, Editor.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 26.

Win. M. Everett would make a good U. S. Senator for New York—fill the place, and gracefully.

The question now is did C. K. Holladay run for lieutenant governor and did Joe Waters support him?

Missouri wants a place in Cleveland's cabinet, and the followers of Frank James are for James O. Broadhead.

The Newton Republican raises John Sherman's name for 1888. Sherman is good enough, but his name is Bill, not John.

Indignant Kansas boys have about let up on denouncing His Excellency, Ex-Governor Judas Prohibition Stinking John. It is well.

We would like to enquire why it is necessary for Mr. Cleveland to announce so long before hand that the Negroes of the south need not be uneasy.

A St. Louis Globe-Democrat correspondent gives a list of Wichita Democrats who are expecting Federal positions. The list is good enough as far as it goes, but it does not begin to go half way.

The Independent noughts of New York must realize that it is a pretty cold day for them. They had an attack of the shysters which has struck in, and Cleveland says he owes them nothing.

Robert Buchanan thinks that America possesses in Walt Whitman the most original poet, the whitest soldier in Sherman, the profoundest philosophic physiologist in Draper and the greatest humorist in Mark Twain.

"You sit down here," says Miss Kate Field to the good people of the Bay State, "and fancy that Boston is the hub of the universe, and that the West can teach you nothing. It has taught me more than half a dozen trips to Europe."

George T. Anthony, J. B. Johnson, Lon E. Finch and Barton, of Abilene are all talked of for speaker of the next Kansas house of representatives; C. C. Baker for secretary of the senate and Fletcher Meredith for chief clerk of the house.

We shouldn't forget Logan. He made no mistakes, went to no dinners talked to no preachers, but delivered from one to five Republican speeches every day, and now it is said that the Illinois legislature is Democratic, and that is going to elect the gambler's boss, Carter Harrison, of Chicago, to the United States Senate.

The New York Star says: "The letter-carriers are having a hard road to travel. Each one is stopped on every trip by some Democrat, who has out a piece of tape and compasses to measure to see if the uniform is tight. Yesterday the postoffice and custom-house were thronged by enthusiastic Clevelanders picking out snags here."

Speaking of the presidential campaign just ended the London Daily News says: "Mr. Baile has fought the battle with an energy and spirit that even his opponents must admire. The efforts of our own public men—even Mr. Gladstone's energetic tour in Scotland—are almost insignificant in comparison with those which Mr. Baile made of himself."

A southern paper cries out to the people of this section that a great trouble face the south in the fact that in what is known as the Black Belt of states a negro is increasing nearly three times as fast in population as the whites. Why not keep your old races, reorganize your K. K. and kill 'em off. The average southerner thinks a black man fit only for a slave or to be killed.

Emporia Republican: In regard to reports that the Hessian fly is damaging Kansas wheat, it seems there is some foundation for the story in northern Kansas, free from that or other wheat pest. Correspondents in Marion, Reno, Rice, Barton, Rush, Pawnee, Finney, Edwards and other Arkansas valley counties, report the wheat doing well in every respect.

TEMPLE OF JUSTICE DEDICATED

The United States circuit court room in the new federal building at Topeka was dedicated to justice on Monday, Judge C. G. Foster making a few appropriate remarks. It is a magnificent room and withal cozy. There were forty or fifty of the leading lawyers of the state present. On taking the bench Judge Foster said:

GENTLEMEN OF THE BAR:—It might appear to be a lack of modesty in me to dedicate this magnificent court room to the purposes of justice without some proper recognition. I think the bench has great cause for mutual congratulation. After wandering up and down the earth for so many years, without a suitable place for the federal courts, that they have at length reached what might be termed a haven of rest—and we certainly have here a room with all the convenience and accommodations that could be desired for the administration of justice, and should the economic properties of the room be as satisfactory as everything appurtenant to it, there certainly can be nothing further desired for the accommodation of our courts.

GARFIELD'S LAST WORDS.

A correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean in talking of all the talk in present interest in Washington, writes up also the Swain court martial. "Oh, Swain! Think of the last words of Garfield in the night hours of September, three years ago, by the sea at Elkhorn, when the fierce thrust of that pain came and life went. The dying president's last thought was of the man who is undergoing this week the deepest humiliation that can befall an army officer. He was the friend on whose neck the dead president hung affectionately, and his honor and pre-eminence were so dear to Garfield that he would not have been parted from him for a moment. Now the favorite is being tried as a dog for a stolen bone. The trial is held in room 41 on the third floor of the Corcoran Building. Its windows look out on the Treasury Building. The scene there is not so extraordinary as to-day much from the ordinary court martial held from time to time in the various military departments. At the long table around the room sit the distinguished generals and colonels composing the court. Near the window are three or four correspondents busy at their work. Next to them and in the center of the room sit General Swain and his lawyers, Judge Shillabarger and General Grosvenor. Swain might be convicted on his looks. His face wears a hang-dog expression that in spite of every resolution to be just and give him the benefit of the doubt makes you think he is saying to himself, "I am guilty, but it's none of your business." He wears his uniform, but being under arrest he is without sword or belt, and plain straps and stars are on his shoulders instead of epaulettes.

KINGMAN KERNALS.

KINGMAN, Nov. 25. To the Editor of the Daily Eagle: I was talking with your correspondent about the case of Mr. Cleveland and he said that in his wanderings over Kingman county, he found a very large number of the reading families taking the Wichita Eagle. If we cannot have a paper in Kingman let us have one in Wichita. Mr. Murdoch, this community will shake and go you one better.

Dr. Patterson, of Cleveland, this county, can tell just as big wheat stories as you can, and he does not blush when he tells them either. They are facts and he can prove them if need be.

It is as solemn as bending over the tomb of Adam, to think that we have not a paper that represents Kingman county. This little petty personal snarl of the people of this city and county are disgusted. It is too countryified and old. If these two editors have in any way, they are not to be next. They are not to be next. They are not to be next.

The Courier thought it funny to say last week that one real estate man, one doctor, one horse doctor and one male puncher were out selling a section of land and just as they got in town upset their four in hand. They didn't.

THE KANSAS SENATORSHIP. (Rochester, N. Y., Democrat and Chronicle) Not the least among the good results of the recent election is the removal of the return to the United States senate of the Hon. John J. Ingalls, who for twelve years has had a seat in that body. The Republican Kansas have a very large majority in both branches of the legislature, and fully four-fifths of this majority were elected by the constituents in advance of the return of Mr. Ingalls.

Such return will alike be honorable to the senator and vindictive of the sturdy Republicanism which was born amid the throes of civil strife and which has been the driving force in the marvelous development of the resources of Kansas. It was for the sake of preserving the virgin soil of the territories of Kansas and Nebraska from being trodden by the slave and defiled by the feet of the non-hunter that the "border ruffians" made a bite of the territory and began its splendid career as a conquering political force. It was upon the plains of Kansas that the "border ruffians" made a bite of the territory and began its splendid career as a conquering political force.

It was upon the plains of Kansas that the "border ruffians" made a bite of the territory and began its splendid career as a conquering political force.

To the maintenance and the triumph of Republicanism in the state no one has contributed more than the senator who has represented them, at Washington, since 1872. Going to the senate in 1880, he brought the training of the New England schools, and with New England ideas of popular institutions, he was identified with the struggles of the new territory, and he has also been identified with the greatness of the newer commonwealth. He has been identified with the greatness of the newer commonwealth. He has been identified with the greatness of the newer commonwealth.

Washington, this winter, having been largely instrumental in securing the magnificent Republican majority of over 50,000, and bearing in his hands the commission he has so well earned of another term in the United States senate. He will thus become one of the oldest of the certainly, one of the ablest, senators.

A FINE OLD ROW.

A dispatch from New York dated the 23d, says that Cleveland and Hendricks are reported to have had a fine old row at Albany yesterday afternoon. Hendricks attempted to advise Cleveland as to the possible formation of his cabinet, and was set down upon. Much to the surprise of the politicians Vice-President-elect Hendricks returned from Albany late on Sunday night. He took up his old quarters at the Fifth Avenue hotel. It was noticed by the observant man that he did not register his name, and that his manner was not so serene as when he left to go and visit his principal at Albany that morning.

Wm. Governor, remarked an acquaintance this evening, "what has brought you back so soon?" "It was my intention to stay in Albany an hour or two only. There is a press of people around Mr. Cleveland congratulating him at present, and until he disposes of them and the novelty of seeing the next president wear off, little can be done in the way of business."

What do you think of Mr. Cleveland, was the reply.

"He is a nice gentleman and hospitable," was the reply.

Governor Hendricks' return gave rise to the rumor that he and the president-elect had had a difference of opinion. This is what was said in whispers here and there to-night. When Mr. Hendricks had saluted his chief formerly and commenced talking about the cabinet, Gov. Cleveland, for general politeness, had said to Mr. Hendricks' Brooklyn speech, intimating that it was too pronounced a beginning, that they should proceed more slowly, and that after all there was ample time to arrange matters before the 2d of March. This is said to have set Mr. Hendricks, who gave the president-elect to understand he did not like the idea of Senator Cleveland assuming so much authority in the language he had used respecting the next cabinet, etc., after which the two gentlemen parted and said to have left abruptly. It is known that ex-Senator George W. Bright, also of Indiana, is a close personal friend of Mr. Hendricks, who is not on the best of terms with Mr. Hendricks. "He has great influence over Mr. Hendricks," is the opinion of a gentleman who knows a thing or two of politics. Be this as it may, the senator and ex-Senator Bright left the city together this evening at 6:35 for Albany in answer to a telegram, while at the same time Mr. Hendricks was taking matters coolly in his rooms at the Fifth Avenue hotel.
